Harold James

(Ph.D. Cambridge University, 1982) is Claude and Lore Kelly Professor in European Studies and a Professor of History at Princeton University, a Professor of International Affairs in the Woodrow Wilson School, as well as an Adjunct Professor at BI Norwegian Business School. He is Director of the Program in Contemporary European Politics and Society and serves on the editorial committee of the journal World Politics and is Chairman of the Academic Council of The European Association for Banking and Financial History (EABH). Before coming to the United States in 1986, he was a Fellow of Peterhouse for eight years. He was awarded with the Ellen MacArthur Prize for Economic History at the University of Cambridge in 1982, the Helmut Schmidt Prize in Economic History at the German Historical Institute in Washington, D.C. in 2004 and the Ludwig Erhard Prize for writing about economics in 2005. His research focuses on European economic history, and German history in particular. He has published and co-authored several books analysing Germany's financial history in the interwar era, the changing character of national identity in Germany and detailed studies about the Deutsche Bundesbank. His latest book, Making the European Monetary Union published by the Harvard University Press in 2012, deals with the role of the Committee of Central Bank Governors and the origins of the European Central Bank, giving us a deeper understanding of the European monetary crisis by tracing the decade-long process of implementing the idea of a Europe-wide monetary union and common currency, which finally morphed into the European Central Bank.
