

1st CESifo EconPol Europe PhD Workshop: Economic and Fiscal Policy in Europe

Munich, 1-2 February 2018

The first CESifo EconPol Europe PhD Workshop for current and recent doctoral students will take place at the ifo Institute in Munich, Germany on 1–2 February, 2018. EconPol Europe – The European Network for Economic and Fiscal Policy Research is a unique collaboration of nine policy-oriented university and non-university research institutes that will contribute their expertise to the discussion of the future design of the European Union.

The aim of this two-day workshop is to bring together PhD students whose research focuses on economic and fiscal policy issues in the European context and strengthen the collaboration between EconPol network members. Participants will have the opportunity of presenting their work, and of interacting with, and having their research discussed by senior researchers from the different network partners.

The keynote lecture will be delivered by Jörg Rocholl, ESMT Berlin.

SUBMISSION DETAILS

We encourage submissions from different fields (e.g., public, labor, macroeconomics). The workshop is open to both empirical and theoretical researchers working on issues relevant to the European Union. An affiliation with an EconPol network member is not required for participation.

The deadline for submission of papers or abstracts is 17 December 2017. Preference is given to papers over abstracts. Please note that electronic submissions only will be accepted for this conference and should be submitted here.
